

“In order to rebuild our economy and level the playing field for all working people—union and non-union—the law protecting workers’ rights must be enforced.”

—Richard Trumka, President AFL-CIO

We Agree.

In fact, we think that employees should have even more rights on the job—like the right to a secret ballot vote when it comes to whether or not to join a union. And the right to decide if a portion of an employee’s union dues should be given to political candidates.
